Purpose

This policy sets out the RTA's approach to the management of customer complaints.

Policy statement

The RTA is committed to delivering a positive customer experience and recognises that addressing complaints are an opportunity to improve our services.

The RTA places our customers at the centre of everything we do and will work with customers to resolve their complaints in a fair and timely way.

This aligns with the RTA's Client Service Charter and Strategic Plan.

Scope/application

This policy applies to all staff including temporary and permanent employees, consultants, contractors, students, or any other person who provides us with services on a paid or voluntary basis.

This policy governs the management of external complaints made to the RTA by members of the public, stakeholders, and people acting as members of the community. A person may complain on behalf of another person if they are authorised to do so. For the purpose of this document, they are referred to as customers.

A complaint is an expression of dissatisfaction made to or about the RTA, by a customer who is apparently directly affected, regarding:

- our customer service
- our products
- our policies and processes
- the behavior of an RTA officer or
- a customer who believes that their human rights have been limited.

And a response or resolution is required or requested. In some instances, a response may be legally required.

This policy is supported by the Complaints Management Procedure and processes.

Note: any feedback or complaints regarding public interest disclosure are contemplated under the Public Interest Disclosure Policy.

Some complaints are excluded from this policy, as they are managed by particular legislative requirements or can not be actioned using a standard process.

The RTA may decline to action some complaints where the matter is:

- Outside jurisdiction (E.g., QCAT or Bond loan processes or outcomes)
- Impractical to investigate
- About conduct displayed by parties other than the RTA and where a legislative remedy is unavailable
- About incomplete Investigation cases
- Offensive, or unreasonable complaints.

Decisions to decline will be communicated with the complainant where possible.

Anonymous complaints can be considered however a response may be unlikely if a return address is not supplied and it appears the complainant does not want to be identified.

Complaints Management principles

To achieve our goals, the RTA's Complaints Management Policy is underpinned by the following:

Principle	Applied
Proportionality	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Used as an equitable method of determining the seriousness, sensitivity, or complexity of a complaint/matter.</li> <li>Allows allocation of the 'best fit' resource to handle or address the complaint/matter.</li> </ul>
Visibility	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Customers have access to the policy and complaints information.</li> <li>Customers are provided with clear and concise information about how and where to complain.</li> <li>Complaints management information is provided to staff and awareness is raised through onboarding and regular training.</li> </ul>
Accessibility	Customers can submit their complaint to the RTA in writing (online, email or post), by phone or face-to-face. Customers who need assistance to submit their complaint may access the following services: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Translationz - translating and interpreting service provider</li> <li>National Relay Service (NRS)</li> <li>the RTA Complaints webpage for user-friendly self-service options</li> <li>the RTA's Contact Centre for individual assistance.</li> </ul>
Responsiveness	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Early intervention channels are available for simple and time-sensitive matters.</li> <li>Customer complaints are acknowledged.</li> <li>Responses provide a clear explanation of any decisions or actions taken.</li> <li>Resolutions offered are fair and reasonable to all parties.</li> <li>Customers are advised about their internal and external review options, if applicable.</li> </ul>
Reporting and Accountability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Complaints information is visible and easily accessible on our website.</li> <li>The complaint management system is monitored to ensure it meets customer and business needs.</li> <li>Complaints data is used to fix problems and make business improvements.</li> <li>Complainants are de-identified for general reporting.</li> <li>Everyone has the right to complain and will not be disadvantaged for doing so.</li> </ul>

Our complaints management system complies with the Public Service Act 2008, is compatible with the Human Rights Act 2019 and meets the guiding principles of the Australian Standard.

Complaints management model

Statement of behavioural standards

The RTA expects that both customers and staff will maintain a respectful and courteous manner in working together to resolve a complaint or matter.

If the RTA receives a customer complaint that is offensive or unreasonable, the RTA may decline to respond to protect the safety and well-being of its employees.

The RTA may use discretion when communicating a decision to decline a complaint and may invite the customer to resubmit if adjustments are made to meet behavioural standards. The substance of a complaint dictates the level of resources dedicated, not a complainant's demands or behaviour.

RTA staff behaviour is governed by a Code of Conduct and are required to treat customers and members of the public with respect, and to recognise that others have the right to have views that are different from their own.

Review and consultation

The RTA's complaint management system is reviewed annually to ensure it continues to meet the RTA's business and customer needs and best practice guidelines.

The review process considers input from both internal and external sources.
